

Universities against sexual harassment

mindful.
respectful.
responsible.

The Lucerne Universities do not tolerate sexual harassment.

Human contact is what makes a university. However, it can be experienced in different ways depending on the context: things that are considered perfectly normal in one setting might be perceived as harassment in another. Sexual harassment can be a glance, gesture, or deed. It can affect anyone.

You are entitled to the protection of your physical and mental integrity and to your boundaries being respected. Together, the Lucerne Universities are committed to ensuring a discrimination-free environment – they do not tolerate any form of sexual harassment or assault.

Learn more about what you can do to prevent sexual harassment as a superior or as someone who has personally experienced or observed it.
