Impact Assembly 1 – Education and Language Advocacy

Introduction

The MultiLX project investigates linguistic practices across diverse educational settings in Europe, exploring what they mean for equity, inclusion and educational policy. Impact Assembly 1 – "Education and Language Advocacy" brings this research into dialogue with policymakers and other key actors working in language and education across Europe.

The Assembly will bring together evidence and experience from the MultiLX Case Studies with focus on education: How can research on multilingualism inform stronger language advocacy and more inclusive and just educational policy? How can art-based methods contribute to the exploration of linguistic and semiotic resources and advance advocacy? Researchers will share key findings and policy recommendations, creating creative spaces to explore their implications for education systems across different European contexts.

The event brings together the full project consortium, project partners, Advisory Board members and senior representatives involved in language and education policy. We also warmly welcome researchers, teachers, teacher educators, student-teachers and university students. All participants are invited to contribute actively – through presentations, dialogue and discussion – to a conversation that aims to move from research evidence to advocacy, and from advocacy to educational change.
